

Science & Nature Learning

- Exploration of rocks, leaves, and loose parts
- Respect and care for the environment
- Honouring and supporting ecological integrity
- Understanding the importance of biodiversity and the balance and harmony of ecosystems

Wildschooling & Inquiry Learning

Geography & History

- Building relationships with First Nations, Métis, and Inuit communities
- Respecting the sacred history or the land
- Learning about the geographic processes
- Exploring the connections between land use and sustainability

Social & Emotional Learning

- Understanding that risky play is part of children's learning and development
- Encouraging self-regulation, problem-solving, and regular reflection
- Fostering team-building, communication, and cooperation among students
- Honouring intrinsic motivation

Reading & Writing

- Recording sights, sounds, and feelings while exploring
- Jotting down notes, sketches, and wonderings about plants, animals, geology, and the weather
- Reflecting on our relationship with the land and understanding ourselves as a part of the natural world